VETERANS GUESTS AT CAMP GOOD WILL

More Than 300 From Soldiers' Home, With Band, Have Outing With Children.

Picture more than 300 veterans of the civil war, marching erect behind the Boldiers' Home Band playing "The Star-Bpangled Banner," and followed by nearly 100 youngsters, each wearing a red, white, and blue cap, and carrying American flag given them by the soldiers, and you have the picture that marked the close of the soldiers' day at Camp Good Will yesterday. The procession halted before the two tents, which had been erected for the camp by the soldiers, and, as Bugler Conway sounded the call, the flags that previously had been raised on the two tents were lowered.

It was a red letter day for the sol-diers and for the "kiddles" at the camp as well. At the sound of assembly call as well. At the sound of assembly call at the Soldiers' Home at 2:15 the vetat the Soldiers' Home at 2:15 the veterang fell into line and marched to the automobiles. There were fifty-five of role of the little half-breed girl who these waiting to take them to the camp. All had been loaned, for the afternoon by Washington business men. A surprise awaited the comrades when boxes of cigars, donated by Henry Lansburgh, were passed around.

were passed around.

Arriving at the home the assembly call for the children was sounded, and, after they had formed in line, they were served with ice cream and cake.

Sergt. John E. Hogan had charge of these exercises. "Uncle Sam," impersonated by George Campbell, was a principal figure throughout the afternoon. He had with him a "guard of here" made up of two boy scouts.

Then came the distribution of toys, bats, hair ribbons, pop corn, and various gifts for both the children at the camp and their mothers. The greatest fun of the day was when the old soldiers joined with the children in all sorts of games, from baseball to marbles.

Jonadabs Give Social For Wayne Cordell

A farewell social was given Wayne Cordell by members of the Independent Sons of Jonadab last evening, before his departure for Kentucky to resume his duties as special examiner of pensions.

The affair was at Mr. Cordell's home, 2548 Fourteenth street. Short addresses were made by Grand Vice Chief Joseph D. Buckley. Mark Reliey, James F. Peake, Grand Secretary E. W. Sanderson, and John Jeschke. Solos were given by Patrick Niland and Charles Vermil-

Milk Is Pasteurized In Bulk Successfully

That milk can be pastuerized successfully in bulk is the announcement of the Department of Agriculture after a series of experiments. By the new method the milk is pastuerized and then bottled, while hot, in hot steaming bottles. This new process nesides being more convenient, was found to eliminate the danger of bottle in-fection and had the further advantage of saving the loss in milk caused by evaporation over the cooler.
